There is excitement throughout the country because a literary gentleman says George Washington swore, drank alcoholic drinks, and even made such drinks on his premises.

"Horrors, dreadful, shameful, take it back," that is the cry. Virtuous ladies and sisterhoods even suggest that they will make somebody else "first in war, first in peace, first in the hearts of his countrymen."

But the excitement is unequalled for men live according to the habits of their time. Everybody "swore" in Washington's day. Not so long ago it could be written quite naturally: "I knew she was a lady by her oaths."

Everybody drank alcoholic drinks in Washington's day. Thomas Jefferson imported his wines from France and recommended an English brewer to the kind attention of the legislature, saying that wine and beer would do more for temperance than anything else. He hated whisky — wise Jefferson.

There is no reason to suggest tearing up the Declaration of Independence because Jefferson, who wrote it, drank wine. George Washington was not hired to drink ice water or sing psalms.

The people hired Washington to beat the English. He did it, to a finish, and that is enough. When the Y. W. C. A. shivers at the thought of Washington brewing beer, you wonder if the good ladies never read the New Testament account of the wine making at Cana. If the founder of Christianity could properly create wine, miraculously, to cheer up a wedding, Washington might well brew beer in the old-fashioned way.

Anyhow, alcohol was no sin in his day. The sin then would have been to offer your guest ice water or "pop."

Abd-el-Krim, head of the Rifians, defied the Spanish and French. He felt safe in his sand hills, sure that his desperate fighting men, attacking in small bands, would wear out both Spanish and French.

He figured correctly enough as regards fighting on the ground, but unfortunately for himself he left the flying machine out of his calculations.

The French and Spanish did not march over these sand hills to find him. They sent flyers through the air, dropping explosive bombs and poison gas on Abd-el-Krim's troops and villages.

And he who expected to hunt the Spaniards and the Frenchmen out of Morocco suddenly found that he was the one hunted, and in terror of his life began building his camp under neath the ground, beyond reach of French and Spanish air bombs.

A Spanish boat carried bombing airplanes within easy distance of Abd-el-Krim's stronghold.

It was not necessary for flyers to travel all the way from France or Spain across the Mediterranean. The pilots slept comfortably in their berths, with their airplanes on board.

Fire Chief Bryan Is Given Police Powers by State

Commission as assistant state fire marshal in the East Liverpool district has been received by Fire Chief Thomas Bryan.

Asserting that lack of time prevented him continuing as a member of the Wellsville civil service commission, Attorney W. F. Lones, member of the law firm of Lones, Hill & Davidson, Saturday tendered his written resignation to Mayor W. L. Fogo, of Wellsville. His action comes as an aftermath to Chief John F. ### GERALD CHAPMAN, NOTORIOUS BANDIT, MUST HANG, U. S. COURT DECIDES Ruling Upholds Right of Connecticut Tribunal to Deal With Convicted Slayer of New Britain Patrolman.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—Gerald Chapman, notorious bandit, must hang in Weathersfield, Conn., prison on March 3, the United States circuit court of appeals decided today.

Chapman, condemned for the murder of James Skelley, a New Britain policeman, in a burglary on October 12, 1924, had appealed from a decision of Federal Judge Edwin S. Thomas. That jurist, in refusing a writ of habeas corpus to the notorious mail robber, upheld the right of Connecticut to deal with Chapman. The convict, through his attorney, Frederick

J. Groehl, had argued his right to refuse President Coolidge's commutation of his 25-year sentence for the mail robbery.

Escaped from Atlanta. Chapman escaped from the Atlanta penitentiary in March, 1923. He wished to go back there and complete his term in order to avoid the gallows in Connecticut.

The appellate court's decision, written by Judge Martin T. Manton, declined to consider the validity of the commutation granted by the president. The court held that the prisoner had no right to plead the existence of a previous crime to save himself from the consequence of a later one.

The prisoner, it continued, had no right to determine for himself which of the two sentences should be imposed. At the outset of the fight to save his life, Chapman said he would carry the case to the supreme court if necessary.

Through the efforts of Plant Superintendent H. W. Carper, and his co-workers, who labored Saturday night Sunday and Sunday night, the news wires and most of the business telephones were restored last night. Commercial Manager Frank Swamy said telephones in the Thompson hill section would be in working order before night.

PERRY DANIELS, MILL MAN, WOUNDED BELOW HEART AT FARM HOUSE

Marvin L. English, 34, is Arrested on Charge of Shooting With Intent to Kill as Result of Gun Play on Campground Road, West of City, on Sunday Night.

POLICE SAY SHOOTING FOLLOWED WELLSVILLE MAN'S TRIPS TO HOME

Chief John H. Fultz Declares Prisoner, When Questioned, Said: "I Will Not Lie; I Did Shooting"—Wife, According to Police, Claims Jealousy, Was Motive.

Perry Daniels, 35, Wellsville millworker, is in a critical condition in the City hospital with a wound below his heart from a .32 calibre revolver, and Marvin L. English, 34, alleged self-confessed gun wielder, is held in the Wellsville jail on a charge of shooting with intent to kill as a result of a quarrel, last night at 8 o'clock at the English home in the Campground road.

According to the story reported to have been told by the prisoner's wife to Chief of Police John Fultz, of Wellsville, English had accused the gun victim of bestowing too much attention upon her.

Police say English, observing Daniels approaching his house in the gathering darkness, slipped out of a rear door, darted around the side of the house and fired point blank at the visitor as he stood on the porch of the dwelling.

According to Mrs. English, police claim, the shooting occurred on Daniels' second trip during the evening to the home. He had been up once before, it is claimed, and on that occasion had quarreled with English.

Gunwielder Calls Ambulance.

Daniels staggered into the roadway, slumped to his knees and then fell over into the snow. English, it is claimed, dragged him into his house and called the D. N. MacLean ambulance, and a neighbor, according to police, advised members of the fire department of the shooting.

Chief of Police Fultz and several officers rode the patrol to within a short distance of the English home, arriving after Daniels had been taken to the hospital.

Police, reconnoitering before they advanced to the home in the darkness, saw a man come out of his house.

100 Young Men Hear Address At Sunday Afternoon Club Meet

Dr. E. H. Richards, Oberlin, Chautauqua Lecturer, Discusses "Animals of Africa and Law of Survival of Fittest."

More than 100 young men between the ages of 16 and 26 years, attended yesterday's meeting of the Sunday Afternoon Club, which was held in the banquet hall of the Y. M. C. A.

Dr. E. H. Richards, Oberlin, Chautauqua lecturer and public speaker, discussed "Animals of Africa and the Law of Survival of the Fittest." He referred to a visit he made to Portuguese East Africa, where he spent 32 years. Twice the boat on which Dr. Richards was a passenger was upset by a rhinoceros and at another time his dog which was sleeping at the foot of his blanket was killed by a leopard.

"African life is a case of the survival of the fittest and is a real fight," he said.

Following an address of an hour, Dr. Richards conducted a round table discussion among a group of the young men. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting.

Dr. Richards plans to make another visit to the club within the near future at which time he will deliver an illustrated address on "African Animal Life." This is said to be the only existing set of slides dealing with wild animal life in the African continent.

RECORD MADE BY OLDSMOBILE

Coach in Non-stop Race
Thru 12-Hour
Blizzard.

Plowing through a 12-hour blizzard and racing over a route largely of ice covered, rutted gravel, a stock Oldsmobile coach raced for seven days and nights without a stop last week, rolling up a total mileage for the 168 hours of 5,950. This distance is believed to be a non-stop record for an automobile, particularly at the rate of speed, which averaged better than 35 miles an hour for the entire week.

This is the second annual Battle Creek endurance run by an Oldsmobile. Last year a professional driver broke both car and driver endurance records by driving an Oldsmobile 3,558 miles in 121 hours and 59 minutes. This year Lee Barnhart, of the Barnhart Motor Sales company, Oldsmobile dealer in Battle Creek, determined to further test the Oldsmobile, running it continuously at high speed for a week.

Barnhart and six other amateur drivers took turns in sending the Oldsmobile coach over a 78.3 miles course, of which 55 miles is poor gravel. The route consisted of a maze of sharp curves and was through three cities and two towns, at each of which stops were made each lap for registrations. Each time the endurance racer passed through the cities a legal speed rate was maintained, thus necessitating road speeds of 55 and more miles an hour to maintain its high average.

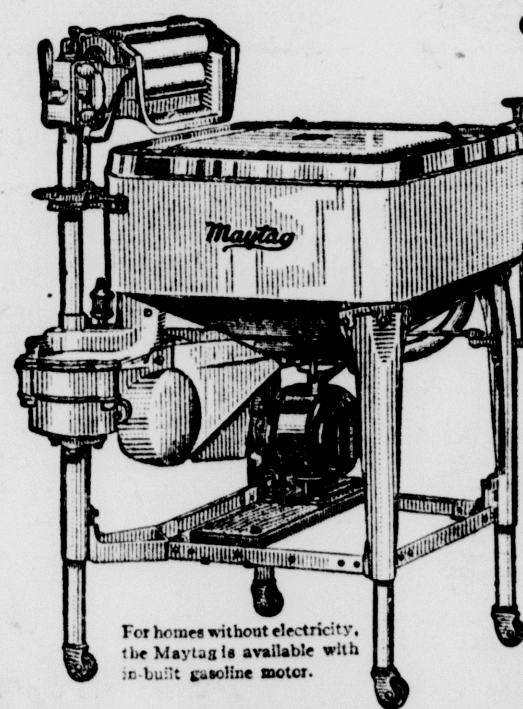

Saturday night, the fifth day of the run, a blizzard raged for 12 hours. During this time the Oldsmobile plunged its way through snow drifts and over roads other drivers considered blocked to traffic. The only mishap occurred during the storm when large snowbanks ahead of the car filled the radiator honeycomb openings, necessitating stops to chop the ice from the core. In the 24 hours including the storm period a total mileage of 873 miles was made. The best day's mileage was 977.7 miles.

From one to four passengers beside the driver were carried at all times so that the test was under constant observation. Careful check of gasoline and oil was kept, which showed an average mileage of 16.8 miles per gallon.

METHUSELAH'S WIFE

THE STORY OF A GIRL BY EDNA POE WHELAN FOR MARY

SEVENTY-FIVE.

In jumping up and starting off when faced so unexpectedly by Wyman Holt, Laurel unwittingly took the path away from instead of toward the house, so that he was able to bar her way when she realized her mistake.

"Please don't run away," he repeated earnestly. "I must talk to you."

"I do not wish to see ANY ONE, Wyman. Please allow me to pass." She shivered, but possibly not because of the cold.

"I just wanted to say that for old times' sake you will call on me if I can be of any possible assistance to you. Please consider me as a friend." He was speaking hurriedly as if each word must be his last.

"That is nice of you, Wyman." She moved past him, but with a step he caught up with her.

"If there is anything in the way of business you may wish to have done, please—"

"More than anything else I want to get away from here. Oh—"

Wyman's eyes lit up. "Oh—"

"So that people will leave me alone," she finished.

His glance from object scampered over the flagstones in a funny little trot caught the attention of both of them simultaneously, and both were impelled to smile. For between his tiny jaws the pekinese carried the end of a corset. The other end and the attendant strings were dragging along at his side, dwarfing him and suggesting fantastically a carnival dragon.

"What barbarous habit! What tones of approaching knight!" exclaimed Wyman, suddenly brightening.

Laurel's inner nature, waiting for days to be prodded into laughter, suddenly released itself with a gush. The peke, suddenly halted looked inquisitively up at her from a distance. Wyman reached down to get him, but the animal deftly side-stepped him, and abandoned the corset to resist further attempts to make him a prisoner.

"Truly a relic of the dark age," laughed Laurel, picking it up. "The little scamp is always pulling out things—bats, shoes, stockings, anything. But it's something I've lost, or a button that has rolled under something, he can't be driven to bring it out."

"Berenice's corset?" Wyman asked with a straight face, breaking into a laugh as he did so.

"Berenice would kill you for that. It's at least size 44 to 46."

Laurel would have laughed at the most trivial remark then; her soul had been crying for this release.

It was at this moment that Mrs. Brent Daly and Mother Todd hove in view. Laurel saw them first. "Good Lord, where can I hide this corset?"

"Why hide it?"

"Oh—"

It was too late now. She waited another moment, then held up the offending piece of apparel. "Look what this darned peke dragged out here."

Wyman, hat in hand, was ready to go. The arrivals regarded his darkly, both individually and collectively. He bowed to them and turned to Laurel to say, "Good afternoon, Mrs. Harwood. I shall endeavor to attend to the matter."

Laurel frowned at the words. Obviously he was endeavoring to explain his presence, but she resented the impression that she had called on him for assistance.

Noble Harwood's absent wife turned a bright countenance to his sister as she picked up the dog. "Good afternoon, Mrs. Daly. So nice of you to drop in."

"Let's go up to the house. It's too chilly here," Mother Todd interjected, directing the two in front of her.

Silence fell over the group as they made their way to Mother Todd's fireplace in her living-room. Laurel, having shaken off her mood of despair, was not brought back to it by the unexpected appearance of Noble's sister. She fondled the dog, fed him chocolate from Mother Todd's box, and laughed at the task he had in getting down a corset that tangled his teeth. All the while she knew why Nell Daly was making this visit, and what she had to say.

"How is Marion?" she asked, putting down the peke.

"Very well. She hasn't been going out too much lately and dancing herself to death. . . . I believe she is going to visit some school friends of hers in New York for a while."

Laurel could understand why, Marion couldn't bear to face the staring, questioning eyes of Central City.

"The truth of the matter, Laurel," Mrs. Daly spoke up with sudden intensity, "is that she is almost worried sick over yours and her father's differences. You know she didn't used to like you very well, Laurel, but now she cares a great deal for you, just as she does for her father."

Laurel regarded her doubtfully.

"Why can't you and Noble patch up your differences and end all of this silly talk that is going around the town. Surely—"

"I appreciate your interest in the matter, Mrs. Daly," Laurel interrupted.

The visitor hesitated a moment, then proceeded, her tone less subdued. "All this is getting you two nowhere. . . . I must say frankly, Laurel, that I'm afraid you are making a mountain out of a molehill. Noble is no better or no worse now than he ever has been. Surely you knew his reputation when you married him. Surely you didn't expect your marriage to be as idyllic as if you had married—well, someone of your own age." She might as well have injected "Wyman Holt" in the sentence, for the others read it in her eyes.

"Oh, if only you—all of you—would let me alone and let me think this out for myself!" Laurel had got up and was on the verge of leaving the room.

Mrs. Todd broke her silence. "Wait, Laurel! You've been thinking this out by yourself for nearly two weeks now, and you haven't the slightest idea what you are going to do. Perhaps Mrs. Daly is right. I think it is time for you to decide either that you are going to live with Noble, your husband and the father of your unborn child, or leave him for good."

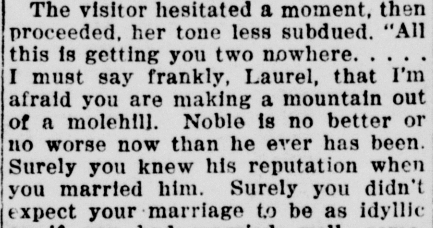

Laurel slowly sat down again, and stared at the floor. Yes, she must decide something. This couldn't go on. She must make up her mind. . . .

Red Knee Breeches Worn by Girls in Switzerland

Geneva.—The short skirt still holds sway as the favored costume of American and English girls for skating at the Swiss mountain resorts. But knee breeches are clearly the thing for skiing and bob sledding.

Observation at the more noted winter resorts in Switzerland shows indisputably that youthful America and youthful England are going in more and more for winter sports. The young people are letting their parents and their elder brothers and sisters find contentment in bridge, billiards and other indoor games, while they disport themselves on ice and snow.

One particularly striking costume seen recently on the skating rink at St. Moritz was a short-kilted skirt of violet-colored woolen material, with a knitted jumper of the same shade, and a woolen cap to match edged with sable.

For skiing the knee breeches are often of red material. They are worn with a white blouse and red woolen waistcoat and a white knitted cap.

The prevailing custom is that, after the morning sports, the young women take their lunch without waiting to change their clothes. After lunch and coffee comes a brief siesta, after which the young people get into their afternoon gowns for the inevitable tea, with occasional dancing. Then comes a smart walk in the hills and perhaps skiing. Evening gowns are worn for dinner, which is followed by dancing until the early hours of the morning.

Panegyric For Telephone Workers

Week-end rains, which converted East Liverpool's sidewalks and streets into ice skating rings and made walking perilous, proved costly to the Ohio Bell Telephone company in the district, for water seeped into a Washinton street manhole and flooded two cables.

As a result, approximately 200 telephone subscribers, including many business houses in Fifth and Fourth streets as well as cross thoroughfares and most of the Thompson hill residential district, were deprived of telephone service.

Among the wires put out of commission were those over which The Review-Tribune receives its state, national and world news, thus meaning the paralysis of all telegraph reports.

Notwithstanding the seriousness of the situation, the news wires operated early Monday morning, while most of the business telephones were used today, while the remainder of the district will be restored to normalcy before night, thanks to the efforts of the telephone company employees who willingly worked until midnight Saturday night and all day Sunday. And they labored under conditions that were far from a picnic.

This is only one of the many sacrifices made under trying conditions by employees of a great public utility which is more often condemned than praised. And because of the importance of their work to the patrons of their employers they deserve this encomium.

The public should remember the telephone man when something goes wrong with the service. Instead of complaining, pat him on the back. He merits it many times during the year.

Land Booms

The widespread land speculation of the last couple of years may not be altogether so bad as many people think. Theodore Price, financial authority, believes its importance has been exaggerated, and it is just as well not to encourage rumors that the land boomers are "trying to get out from under."

"It is undoubtedly true," he says, "that much of the property that has recently changed hands was sold at prices that were unwarrantably high, but the money invested in these ventures has already been paid out and in so far as it may represent an ultimate loss it is already gone and cannot be lost a second time. As there has been no destruction of property, the community as a whole will be no poorer, although its land may be appraised at lower figures."

Land speculation, which admittedly has its evils and perils, for individuals and communities, has certain points of superiority over some rival forms of speculation, particularly speculation in dubious securities.

For one thing, as Mr. Price suggests, the land bought is something tangible and substantial, and is still there even if prices slump. For another thing, a land boom often sends through a whole community and section a healthful glow which stimulates hope, energy and business in general. Sometimes this makes an apparently forced boom realize its expectations, or at least leaves a balance of net benefits.

Working Girl Students

The director of educational work at a large Y. W. C. A. has noted a marked change in the things the modern girl wants to study. There has been a 25 per cent increase in demand for cultural subjects. Instead of cooking, millinery and dressmaking courses, young women are asking for classes in music, correct English, French, grammar, arithmetic. Dozens of them want public speaking.

The director does not regard this as a bad sign at all. Inexpensive ready-made clothes and hats are available now, and it is really more sensible for a working girl to purchase them than to spend too much of her precious leisure sewing for herself. Cooking can be learned from the excellent cook books that are published.

The cultural subjects may not have any apparent immediate effect on the ambitious student's income, but they certainly broaden her outlook, open doors to new interests and develop within her fresh resources of happiness and power.

Better Farming In Europe

A back-to-the-land movement is reported in many European countries. Italy is developing intensive farming. Roumania is limiting farm holdings to 1,225 acres. Switzerland is subsidizing cereals to encourage the use of home food products. England is breaking up large estates to supply food and provide employment.

There are easily frightened Americans who see in this preparation for that "next war." There are others who foresee a narrowing market for food products raised in the United States and Canada. There are still others who see in it progress and good sense.

This last group is pleased to see Europe making greater use of all possible resources, seeking rehabilitation by agricultural development as well as by other means. It may mean a better distribution of wealth abroad and an advancement in the general standard of living. These things have never yet proved harmful.

They do say that sometimes lazy people are most efficient and that people too stupid to see their own faults and failures achieve success. Maybe it pays to know how to use one's weaknesses as well as one's gifts.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Sea Faring in Days of Old.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 15.—When prohibition first became effective in the United States—that is, when the law first went into effect—it will be remembered that many and various were the methods used to circumvent it. No doubt those who hit upon the idea of filtering such toilet preparations as Lila Vegetal and bay rum thought this was decidedly modern and novel.

The journal of an old far serving with the Pacific Fleet during its cruise of 1839-1841 indicates that when there was a shortage of whisky on board the sailors discovered that can de cologne when mixed with a little hot water and sugar "makes a delicious punch as ever gave a fellow a sore head in the morning."

Rear Admiral Elliot Snow (CC), U. S. N., who has made a deep study of all the facts concerning the U. S. Constitution, has in his possession a copy of this story as told by "a fore-top man" serving on that ship during her cruise to the West Indies. He also has copies of official correspondence indicating that it was a fact that there was a shortage of grog on board during this voyage.

On June 19, 1841, the officer commanding the U. S. Storeship Relief requested that Captain Turner, commander of the U. S. Naval Forces in the Pacific, have a survey made of five barrels of rice and five barrels of whisky which were received in bad condition on board the ship. On the 21st Capt. Turner, on board the Constitution, issued the order. The survey showed that the rice had been badly damaged by weevils and that the whisky contained vinegar and salt water. Captain Turner therefore ordered that all be thrown overboard.

This official correspondence gives proof that there was an actual shortage of whisky during this voyage and therefore lends credence to the story of the seaman. He goes on to say that as they neared the Cape and began to feel the weather grow colder and colder many dolorous complaints might be heard throughout the ship. The men were all cursing bitterly the hard fortune that deprived them of their beloved, stimulating liquid in such uncomfortable weather. Many were the wishes expressed that they might soon round the Cape, or that they might fall in with some generous craft which would be willing to replenish somewhat their whisky casks.

The Cup That Cheered.

And such were conditions on board ship when "one evening after the hammocks had been piped down, a little coterie were observed between the forward guns on the main deck, comfortably seated on match tubs and shot boxes, troling a convivial song to beguile the tedious hours, which to all on board, at the present time seemed to fly." Finally one garnet of whom it had been said, "for what transaction going forward that he didn't know something concerning," discovered the source of the fortunate ones' hilarity.

He hastened to spread the news among his companions, and mystified them by asking them, "What would you say now, if I were to put you in the way of a good pot of cologne-sling? That's the stuff to keep the cramp out of the stomach; damme,

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. MCINTYRE

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 15.—For the last two days I have been scouring this section of Florida for a thermometer. I have raked the byways, highways and causeways with the futility of a butter and egg man seeking constancy among Broadway moths.

In stores where thermometers should be kept I inquire and the clerks gaze at me with the vacuity of a flea-scratching dog. It is like asking for ice water in London. Not a home I have visited has a thermometer. I doubt if they have them at hospitals.

I offer no explanation. Nor do I particularly want a thermometer. In fact I have been known to go as long as two weeks without giving a thermometer a single thought. I can't read a thermometer and I don't know if Fahrenheit is a man or zebu, but I'm going to find a thermometer if it takes all winter.

You see the smooth white sand—it is a press agent speaking—dotted with yuccas and mangroves and palms which wave over the ocean. Fresh salty fumes of the sparkling breakers—the press agent's in again—mingle with scents of sea plum and rose apple. True stuff and fine reading but still I'd like a thermometer.

Rosie, the elephant, is a familiar rye whisky or Holland gin ain't a circumstance to it." There were immediate questions as to just what this strange liquid might be.

Garnet went on to explain that he "twigged them finish one potful and then start for the berth deck; I dogged their steps, for I was determined to find out their secret, and I saw him drive down in the cock pit, and in a moment they returned with a pint bottle each of eau de cologne. . . . so if you can raise a purchase let's have the chink, and I'll do your business for you in a moment."

There was an immediate clamor to know the price. Many a dollar which had been saved for the purpose of purchasing bum-boat delicacies when the fleet should have arrived in port was now brought forth and with no hesitation used to purchase this expensive but delightful substitute for grog.

At first it was sold only to certain individuals "under the rose," but soon the entire ship's company having become aware of this fascinating beverage became insistent in their demands. The store room of the purser's steward was crowded and soon "cologne" was the rage from the fore-top to the main-hold.

Of course this good fortune of the crew could not continue indefinitely. The fact that they had partaken of something which put a sparkle in the eye and a flush to the cheek could not for very long escape the notice of the officers and many cases of intoxication were reported. Then arose the question as to where the men had obtained the liquor. The traffic in this eau de cologne was carried on with such discretion and circumspection, however, that it was several days before this information was available.

The fore-top man ends his tale with the sad philosophy that "man was born to disappointment and perplexity, and he scarcely becomes a possessor of a desideratum ere cruel Fate steps in, mars his pleasures, and dashes the cup of gratification and enjoyment from his eager lips; so with the cologne; as one of our wares expressed it, 'twas too good to last long; by some means or other, the 'fountain head' became acquainted with the source from whence this exhilarating beverage sprang, and forthwith clapped a stopper thereon, and many were the countenances that changed from joy and gladness to sorrow and disappointment when this distressing intelligence reached them."

This old-time substitute is of no help to the modern experimenter for the Prohibition Enforcement Unit warns that eau de cologne, bay rum and such toilet preparations are made of denatured alcohol or have an ingredient added which takes these liquids out of the beverage class.

sight on the roads near our bungalow. She belongs to Carl Fisher, a pioneer developer. They imported a Senegalese to handle her, but Rosie had become attached to a native donkey and she gave the Senegalese a beating and sent him to a hospital with three broken ribs.

At dusk last night the darkey was riding Rosie home bare-back. "Easy riding?" I called out. "Yes, sah, fine as a fiddle," he replied. Then he stopped and told me about the fun of handling an elephant. I must ask Carl Fisher about a thermometer. Any man who can dig up an elephant ought to produce a thermometer.

There are perhaps as many jazz bands in Florida as in Greater New York—with Paul Whiteman and Roger Wolf Kahn scheduled for appearance. I saw an ad today for 23 saxophonists, but they will have to leave their raccoon coats up north.

I have often been puzzled about folks you see attending matinees in New York. They are distinct types. And you see them only at matinees—and winter resorts.

Irvin Cobb and Meredith Nicholson are expected shortly to join our menage. Nicholson is novelizing the life of Andrew Jackson and Cobb is busy too. I'll enjoy watching the authors' auto.

Which reminds me I have been perusing the library of a strange house. Last night I skinned through "Jo's Boys" and was transported back to those happy hours when our hired girl read me to sleep with the words of Louisa M. Alcott. Books have souls. They are souls. Even girl books.

At Aladdin City, a town nearby in the making, they put on a quick development sketch today. In the morning the sun rose on a vacant lot and by nightfall a house had been carried in sections by airplane, fitted up and completely furnished so a family was able to move in.

It will soon be that a man may telephone around lunch time and order a new house for his mother-in-law, who is arriving on the evening 6:15. That's service.

POLICE OFFICER IS EXONERATED

Lieutenant Ward Ice, Weirton, Freed in Shooting Case.

Lieutenant of Police Ward Ice, of Weirton, was exonerated of all blame following the shooting to death of John Rodock, 35, in his home at 1325 Elm street, Weirton, early Sunday morning, after Rodock, during a raid on his home had forced, with a drawn revolver, two policemen from his home and had fired a bullet close to the lieutenant's head.

The verdict of "justifiable homicide," was returned by a jury impaneled by Coroner George A. Arner of Chester who conducted an inquest. The jury was composed of former Sheriff J. D. S. Mercer, S. M. Smith, J. L. Miller, W. S. Bambrick, H. N. Meals and John Angus. Chief of Police Harry Brookes of Weirton, acted as constable in securing the jury.

The shooting occurred when Lieutenant Ice and Officers John Nelson and Lawrence Cosgrove went to the Rodock home to serve a warrant on a charge of violating the liquor laws. They were refused entrance by Rodock and after a wait of 30 minutes Cosgrove and Nelson forced their way to the second floor. They were met by a volley of shots fired by Rodock and retreated to the street. Lieutenant Ice hearing the shots entered the room and turning quickly Rodock fired one shot at him which went wide of the mark. Slipping behind a cabinet Ice fired four shots in rapid succession, Rodock's wrist and entered the groin. He

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga. (adv.)

And when they came within reach of the poor Riffians they took to the air, and the rest was easy.

Americans, who are undetected by any adequate airplane fleet, ought to think what would happen to New York, Boston, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle or the capital of the nation itself. Washington, if a few hostile ships from Africa, Asia or Europe should visit our shores and release flocks of destructive airplanes.

Our poor, simpleton "army and navy authorities" talk about coast defense guns and anti-aircraft guns. They would be as useless against aircraft as the bows and arrows of the Indians were useless against the muskets of our ancestors.

The United States needs flying machinery.

All the world's "great men" are praised too much, and denounced too much.

One historian, like Frende, sees in Caesar a giant of intellect, a patriot, everything that is noble.

Another, infinitely more careful and more accurate as a historian, Ferrero, sees in that same Caesar a clever politician, forcing his way to the top by cunning, intrigue, a demagogue deserting his own class, to use the dregs of the population against that class.

Schiller writes most beautifully about William Tell, then along comes another more accurate narrator to tell you that no such person as William Tell ever existed.

A picture, illustrating a book by the French writer, Anatole France, recently dead, shows one conception of Napoleon Bonaparte.

The world beneath his knee is covered with blood. The people upon whom he tramples are in chains and in agony. Below the pedestal you see the soldiers of "glorious France" walking with one leg, crippled, without any legs, one pushing himself along in a carriage.

The story is supposed to be told in the words of his letters: "BUT HE GAVE US GLORY."

Beware of too much praise and too much attack.

Napoleon was cruel directly and indirectly. He was as remorseless as a shark when his ambition was at stake. He was brutal with women, and there were other unpleasant things you could say about him. But he was a great servant of the human race.

He made kings ridiculous for all time, keeping them waiting a half dozen at a time, in his ante-room.

He created puppet kings and put them on the throne. A descendant of one of them still reigns in Sweden, descended from a little French lawyer whose son Napoleon made a marshal.

Final Rehearsals

Today and Tomorrow For "Fairy Woods"

Final rehearsals for the play, "The Fairy Woods," to be presented by the pupils of the McKinley school in the high school auditorium Wednesday and Thursday afternoon and evening, will be held today and tomorrow. There will be special matinees for the school children on both days.

Many Alex and Jack Patterson have the roles of Edith and Tom, leading characters in the play. Sara Bourne, as Queen Rose and Robert Pennebaker, as King Peony, have a difficult task of trying to find a governess for their daughter, Violet, who is Phyllis Miller. They are anxious for her to become stately like her sister Lily, Helen Evans. Madame Tulip, who is Jane Crable, is finally selected for the part of governess.

The king and queen are much disturbed over their county cousin, Clover, Ruth Moninger, coming to court just at the time they are giving a ball for Prince Butterfly and Sir Firefly. Carl Stockdale and Everett Lunsford, Sara Stewart, as Buttercup, lends comedy to the plan. Julius Resnick appears in the role of Jougill and Alice Stewart as Le Crier. Sir Bumble Bee is played by Robert Hall.

Costumes and scenery are furnished by the Earl C. Darfler Producing company of Chicago, under whose direction the play is being directed.

As Fire Destroys Log Farm House

HOUGHTON, Mich., Feb. 15.—Six children are dead and their mother and 4-month-old sister are in critical condition today after an early morning fire which destroyed the log farm house of Gottfried Rothenberger, at Portage Entry, 16 miles west of here.

The dead: Freda, 10; Elsie, 9; Mar-ten, 8; William, 6; Ruth, 4; and Paul, 3. Two other children, Alfred, 12, and Irving, 11, escaped without injury by jumping through a window to the roof of a shed at the rear of the house.

Rothenberger, who saved the lives of his wife and the baby, was badly burned in a vain effort to rescue the six children sleeping on the second floor of the house.

The woman and Ohlinger have been in jail since their arrest. Ohlinger, who was driving the car at the time of his arrest, pleaded not guilty and will get a trial at the next session of court.

YOUR HEALTH Why a Baby May Suffer With Secondary Anemia

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D., United States Senator from New York, Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

TO my mind the most important member of the household is the baby. Babies and little children need lots of mothering and, unfortunately, some of them need a lot of doctoring.

There are many ailments these poor innocents may have. To-day I want to tell you about a condition doctors call "secondary anemia."

There is a condition called anemia which is due to disease in the blood-making organ. I am not speaking about that to-day. On the contrary, I desire to describe to you a state of lowered vitality, impoverishment of the blood, flabbiness of the muscles, poor circulation and pronounced paleness of the skin, due to other causes than actual disease of the blood-making structures of the body.

What are these other causes? Many a baby is born with impoverished blood and marked anemia, because its mother, poor thing, was not physically fit for motherhood. She was tubercular, perhaps, or had some other constitutional or blood disease, which made it impossible to give her baby the right start.

Recently I saw a lot of young women with the hookworm disease. They were skinny, pale and terribly feeble. Nobody would expect an infant born of such a mother to come into the world a husky, sturdy, bouncing baby.

If it is not hookworm it might be tapeworm—anything which deprives the mother of rich blood and abundant health will leave her progeny weak and anemic.

Sometimes the mother may be a victim of chronic poisoning from potash, lead or mercury. Scoury, malignant disease, or chronic dyspepsia are other conditions which make the baby a bad start.

A few months before the baby's birth the mother may be unfortunate enough to contract diphtheria, malaria, typhoid or other infectious disease. This is likely to damage the baby's prospects.

After birth secondary anemia may follow improper feeding. Sometimes a baby is kept at the breast too long. This is a too common cause of anemia.

In a survey I had made in New York City, it was surprising how many young children were found to be drinking tea, coffee and cambric tea instead of milk. They were emaciated and undernourished for the want of real food. Don't imagine either that such mistaken practices are confined to the homes of the poor. They are quite as frequent in the palaces of the rich.

In every case of secondary anemia the exciting cause must be determined. Then you will know what is best to do. In most instances it means that proper feeding must be started at once.

In addition to the usual methods of treatment, cod liver oil and sunlight are tremendous curative factors.

Chief Pultz started across the field and observed English emerge from behind the tree and advance to meet him.

Find Revolver on Prisoner. As the two came together, English, according to the chief, fingered his pocket suggestively. Pultz lunged at the man and grabbed his arm, fearing gun play. He searched English and found a revolver.

English was placed in the patrol and taken to the hospital. Daniels, according to Pultz, identified English as the man who had shot him. The police chief then asked English if he had shot Daniels.

The accused man is alleged to have replied: "Yes, I'm not going to lie anything about it."

He was taken back to Wellsville and locked up, pending a hearing before Mayor W. L. Fogo.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—An accumulation of week-end selling orders was in readiness for the market in the first period today, and buying demand showed a sharp contraction from that of the final sessions of last week. The high priced industrial stocks and speculative leaders started the new week with losses of from 3 to 6 points and the reactionary tone spread to every section of the market.

Professionals in the stock market took the bearish position when the market as a whole failed to respond to the good news of the sudden ending of the coal strike and the evident easing of the money market. By concentrating selling pressure on the fast-moving industrial speculative leaders they had little difficulty in forcing down prices in this period, though it is problematical how much real liquidation they were able to bring about.

Despite the reassuring statement issued by the officers of Devoe and Reynolds, the stock continued its sensational downward plunge, dropping 15 points in the first hour, completing a loss of 54 points since Thursday.

THE CHIROPRACTIC IDEA

The Drugless Health Science for Ascertaining the Symptoms and Adjusting the Cause of Disease.

"Results produced are what count," says graduate of The Palmer School of Chiropractic, who has located here.

Chiropractic, the drugless health science, was discovered in 1895 by Dr. D. D. Palmer and has been developed almost exclusively by his son, B. J. Palmer, D.C., Ph.C., who is now the leader of the chiropractic profession and head of the Palmer School of Chiropractic, located at Davenport, Iowa. This school is the "fountain head of chiropractic," it being the original and largest school of this science in the world.

This drugless health science has made wonderful advancement in the past 30 years, until today there are over twenty thousand graduate chiropractors and hundreds of thousands of satisfied patients. Chiropractic has progressed because of the results produced, often in cases said to be hopeless and beyond human aid.

All parts of the body are controlled by nerves and fed by a nerve force from the brain. The work of a chiropractor is based entirely upon this nerve circulation. Any nerve under pressure, caused by a subluxated (slightly dislocated) vertebra (a small bone of the spine), cannot carry its full share of nerve force; therefore sickness and disease to that organ or part of the body supplied by this nerve. Locating and correcting the subluxated vertebrae is the work of a chiropractor. Once the pressure is released from a nerve and the normal flow of nerve force re-established, the disease, whatever be its nature, name, or location, disappears.

Walter W. Schroeder, D.C., who has located a suite of offices at 108 East Sixth street, is a graduate of The Palmer School of Chiropractic of Davenport, Iowa. He completed the three-year residence course late in 1923, then spent almost a year in the office with a leading chiropractor at Willard, Ohio, to secure practical experience. He then was in partnership with a chiropractor in Cincinnati, Ohio, for one year and located here last November.

Walter W. Schroeder is well known in our city, for he lived here several years before he took up the study of chiropractic. Here he got considerable of his business experience and built a large circle of friends who welcome his return.

The only tools of a chiropractor are his well-trained hands. The use of anything other than the hands is not chiropractic, and therefore not taught at the Palmer school. The name of this health science, spelled chiropractic and pronounced ki-ro-prak-tik, is coined from two Greek words and means the doing of something by hand. Therefore, a chiropractor is a hand doer, or hand practitioner. "The practice of chiropractic consists of the palpation and adjustment, with the hands, of the movable segments of the spinal column to normal position for the purpose of releasing the poisoned impulse (nerve force)." B. J. Palmer.

From the name and definition, it is easy to realize that, while each have their place, yet, chiropractic is not medicine, not surgery, not osteopathy and not mechanotherapy. It is a unique, scientific and effective system of correcting the cause of both acute and chronic conditions. It is a natural method for natural people.

An invitation is extended to you to call at this office, room 4, 108 East Sixth street, and have chiropractic, as it applies to your condition, explained to you. There is absolutely no charge for consultation.

VACCINATION IS STRONGLY URGED

Many calls are being received by the state department of health in regard to smallpox which is again prevalent throughout the state. Dr. W. T. Henshaw, state health commissioner, warned people as to the importance of immediate vaccination. Further proof of the increasing prevalence of the disease is indicated by recently tabulated figures which revealed that 821 cases were reported to the department during 1925, or nearly twice as many as in 1924, there being 438 cases recorded for that year with two deaths.

"This alarming increase in the past two years of an absolutely preventable disease, is due entirely to failure to be vaccinated," Dr. Henshaw declared.

"A large percentage of people are not vaccinated, either because they have the erroneous idea that vaccination is dangerous, or because they are not informed or are too careless to realize the importance of it."

She Was Skinny, Weak and Nervous

The greatest strength-giver and producer of good healthy flesh in the world is Cod Liver Oil—it's full of vitamins.

But it's nasty stuff—ill-smelling and hard to take, and usually upsets the stomach.

Thank goodness! we don't have to even smell it! Nasty Cod Liver Oil any more, for now all druggists are selling McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, sugar-coated, and as easy to take as candy, so that you can get the real Cod Liver Oil in condensed form.

Men and women, weak, thin and nervous, are urged to put on weight and get back their health and strength with these wonderful tablets.

One woman gained 15 pounds in five weeks and that's going fast enough. Only 60 cents for 60 tablets, and if they don't put five pounds of flesh on any thin person in 30 days your druggist is authorized to hand you back the money you paid for it.

"But be sure and get McCoy's, the original and genuine."

If It's Chronic Constipation? McCoy's Rinolin

Will Give You Regular and Natural Bowel Movements in 10 Days or Your Money Back

Why don't you get rid of chronic constipation altogether and stop the use of harmful purgatives, salts or calomel?

As long as you have constipation toxins will accumulate in the intestines and eventually get into the entire system and cause self-poisoning.

When you have taken McCoy's Rinolin for 10 days as directed, it will have put the bowels in such a clean, healthy condition that for a long time thereafter, you will have natural and regular bowel movements.

Then you'll feel so much better and look so much better that life will be well worth living.

McCoy's Rinolin is a scientific emulsion that has already helped a host of chronic sufferers put an end to stubborn constipation.

Like McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, it is the one grand tested remedy, so if your bowels do not function properly, get a bottle today from any druggist with the distinct understanding that if it doesn't do as this notice reads, your money will be returned.

Rinolin tonight—Pep tomorrow.

Amazing and Lasting Relief From New Magic of ARIUM—Radium in Tablets—Without Drugs—Test It Yourself.

"$5,000.00 REWARD IF IT FAILS"

Overworked, sluggish kidneys, bladder weakness and prostate gland troubles bring on so many distressing ailments which often lead to serious and perhaps fatal diseases, that every sufferer from lame back, rheumatic twinges, dizziness, pains in the head, sour stomach, frequent getting up at night, nervous weakness and lack of VITAL FORCE, should start at once to get into his system the power supplied by ARIUM. This produces a vitalizing internal exercise of the glands and organs, renewing their proper, normal, youthful action just as Nature intended.

Amazing testimony of physicians and users gives convincing proof of the remarkable power of ARIUM to restore health and strength to the sick and afflicted. A multitude of alarming symptoms quickly disappear. You see and feel a truly startling improvement in yourself each day.

L. M. Robinson of Holly Grove, Ark., says: "I suffered with Prostate Gland, Kidney and Bladder trouble and rheumatism, 13 years. Ordered medicine from a dozen or more concerns and spent a small fortune but I got no relief until I started to using ARIUM, which is the best treatment in the world for rundown nerves and weak glands."

The Associated Radium Chemists Inc., of New York, which supplies druggists with ARIUM, guarantees successful and satisfactory results in every case, or money refunded, and offers $5,000.00 Reward if it fails to prove that a definite cure of genuine radium is used in its preparation. ARIUM is easy and economical to use and may now be readily obtained in this city from any good druggist who can easily get it for you if he has none in stock.

Home-made Remedy Stops Cough Quickly
Finest cough medicine you ever used. Family supply easily made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Four 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle, then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Mother! It's Cruel to "Physic" Your Child

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated infants and children had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all children's little ills, he did not believe that a sickening "purgative" or "physic" was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to establish natural bowel "regularity" even if the child is chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it never gripes, sickens or upsets the most delicate system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless, and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine and just see for yourself.

Ex-Collegians Bow to Jack Art Jewelers In Speedy Clash

Passwork of Canton Quint Beats Locals

After Trailing in Opening Period, Stark County Combine Overhauls Locals in Second Quarter and Leads Remainder of Game; Anderson Plays Great Game at Guard for Potters.

JACK ART JEWELERS basketball team triumphed over the Helmle Ex-Collegians on the high school floor Saturday night, the Canton passers taking home a victory by the score of 34 to 27.

The Jewelers team showed the few hundred basketball fans that saw Saturday night's game some real basketball, having about the prettiest pass work seen on the high school floor for some time.

LORAH PASSERS LOSE AT DOVER

Home Five Clinches Game by First Half Lead.

Defeated by New Philadelphia and Dover in their first extended trip of the season, Coach Lorah's high school passers returned home yesterday to prepare for games this week with Steubenville and Chester, both of which will be staged on the local court.

After being nosed out by a 27 to 25 decision Friday at New Philly, the Blue and White was reversed again on Saturday night at Dover by a score of 27 to 16.

The game in the first quarter was nip and tuck, the scoreboard showing the Ex-Collegians leading, 9 to 7, at the end of the period.

In the second period the Jewelers overhauled the local passers, running up their score to 23 points, while the best the locals could do was to make a point from the free-throw line. The Canton passers were on the front end of a 23 to 10 count at the end of the half.

During the third quarter, the Ex-Collegians staged a comeback and the Canton lads did not score a point while the locals found the hoop for eight, the third quarter ending 23 to 18 in the Canton lads' favor.

The visitors put on a little more speed in the final quarter and they soon rolled up a score that was too big for the Ex-Collegians to overcome.

A big, fast team of rugged youths with a rough and ready style of playing was too much for the local combine, playing on a strange floor. The Dover lads put up a great game against the visitors, especially in the first half when they ran up 19 points to the local's seven. Lorah's outfit outscored Dover in the last half, 9 to 8.

Jimmy Hamilton, the big gun in the game Friday, again was the leading scorer on Saturday night, topping the list with seven points and holding his own with the Dover sharks. Jimmy collected a total of 15 points on the trip.

Everyone of the Canton passers played real basketball and they all figured in the scoring. Stahler, Van Nostran and Van Allren starring.

Anderson, Crawford and Wain were the best performers for the Helmle aggregation. Anderson's all around playing featuring the tie.

In the preliminary contest Laughlin No. 6 forced the Power five to accept a 23 to 27 defeat.

The Potters outclassed their opponents and were leading 17 to 10 when playing time was up for the first half. During the remaining periods the Laughlin boys maintained their lead.

Greenwalt, McConville and Kirkham were the sterling performers for the Laughlin five, while Jester, Dickey and Bucher played the best for the Power passers.

U.S.-French Tennis Stars Clash On Eve of Lenglen-Wills Meeting

Tilden, Richards and Cream of Foreign Talent Battle in National Indoor Championships.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—France and America declared more or less friendly war today on two fronts, the national indoor tennis championship, featuring Bill and Vinnie and Francis versus Rene, Jean and Jacques, beginning at the Seventh Regiment armory, New York, on the eve of the great meeting between Helen and Suzanne at the Carlton club, Cannes.

If the latter, as advertised, will be the match of the ages, so the American indoor champions must be conceded the distinction of outclassing anything heretofore attempted on an indoor court, here or elsewhere.

Presented to King George if She Wins

CANNES, France, Feb. 15.—Not only her reputation and her title will be at stake when Miss Lenglen plays Helen Wills tomorrow, M. Pleurieu, French ambassador at London, has promised Suzanne that if she wins against Miss Wills he will present her to King George after the Wimbledon tournament.

Doris Kenyon Stars
In "I Want My Man,"
At The American

A gust of girlish soprano, floating out through the window of a Brooklyn drawing room to smite the ears of a famous music composer, was the luckiest thing in the life of Doris Kenyon, film and stage star, who is co-starring with First National with Milton Sills in "I Want My Man," the current attraction at the American theatre.

"As soon as he came in he turned to me and asked if I should like to go on the stage. I had never dreamed of it, but before my first surprise was ended he had offered me a role in his operetta, "Princess Pat," which he was just starting in New York. It was my high note that attracted his attention, and it is responsible for my turning from music to drama."

Buxton is a native of Missouri, but has resided in East Liverpool for 20 years. According to his daughter, Mrs. Luther Viles, of St. George street, he has played the violin since a boy. During his younger days he played for barn dances. Of recent years he has played only for his own amusement. He worked at the East End plant of the American Vitriol Products company for many years, but recently retired. He has been making his home with his stepson, Dwight McBride, of Anderson boulevard.

A. H. Harper, 65, of Marion, won the Ohio contest when he defeated Jonas Heinlin, 85-year-old contestant, in the final round.

Harper, who will enter the Detroit contest, filled a two-day engagement at the theatre under whose auspices the state contest was conducted.

Arctic Not So Cold as Painted, Says Stefansson

Omaha, Neb.—The generally accepted theory that frigid weather is prevalent the year round in the Arctic regions was discounted by Vilhjalmur Stefansson, noted polar explorer and scientist, in an address here. Stefansson declared he had discovered by experience that the average temperature of Iceland in January is 30 degrees above zero and that on the northern coast of North America during July and August the thermometer very often goes to 80 degrees in the shade and has been known to go to 100 degrees.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown moon"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, at bed time.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

That Same Old Stomach Distress!

Curtis, Ohio — "I had stomach trouble all my life until a little over a year ago. I tried everything. At last I took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and the 'Pleasant Pellets' and am glad to say I am not bothered any more—I feel good. I thought there was no cure for it. Several doctors told me it couldn't be cured, but I found out it could. I doctored about eighteen years without results and am glad to say that Dr. Pierce can cure what others cannot. I wish to have this printed so it will help other sufferers. There are several people around here taking the 'Discovery' since they saw what it did for me."

1 KILLED, 19 HURT IN MINE EXPLOSION

TODAY

Perhaps George Did Swear.
Airplanes and Sand Hills.
Great Men Praised.
Napoleon Gave Glory.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE
(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.)
Copyright, 1926, by the Star Co.

There is excitement throughout the country because a literary gentleman says George Washington swore, drank alcoholic drinks, and even made such drinks on his premises.

"Horrors, dreadful, shameful, take it back," that is the cry.

Virtuous ladies and sisterhoods even suggest that they will make somebody else "first in war, first in peace, first in the hearts of his countrymen."

But the excitement is uncalled for.
Men live according to the habits of their time. Everybody "swore" in Washington's day. Not so long ago it could be written quite naturally: "I knew she was a lady by her oaths."

Everybody drank alcoholic drinks in Washington's day. Thomas Jefferson imported his wines from France and recommended an English brewer to the kind attention of the legislature, saying that wine and beer would do more for temperance than anything else. He hated whisky — wise Jefferson.

There is no reason to suggest tearing up the Declaration of Independence because Jefferson, who wrote it, drank wine. George Washington was not hired to drink ice water or sing psalms.

The people hired Washington to beat the English. He did it, to a feat, and that is enough. When the Y. W. C. A. shivers at the thought of Washington brewing beer, you wonder if the good ladies never read the New Testament account of the wine making at the wedding. If the founder of Christianity could properly create wine, miraculously, to cheer up a wedding, Washington might well brew
beer in the old-fashioned way.

Anyhow, alcohol was no sin in his day. The sin then would have been to offer your guest ice water or
"pop."

Abd-el-Krim, head of the Rifians, defied the Spanish and French. He felt safe in his sand hills, sure that his desperate fighting men, attacking in small bands, would wear out both Spanish and French.

He figured correctly enough as regards fighting on the ground, but unfortunately for himself he left the flying machine out of his calculations.

The French and Spanish did not march over these sand hills to find him. They sent flyers through the air, dropping explosive bombs and poison
gas on Abd-el-Krim's troops and villages.

And he who expected to hunt the Spaniards and the Frenchmen out of Morocco suddenly found that he was the one hunted, and in terror of his life began building his camp underneath the ground, beyond reach of French and Spanish air bombs.

A Spanish boat carried bombing airplanes within easy distance of Abd-el-Krim's stronghold.

It was not necessary for flyers to travel all the way from France or Spain across the Mediterranean. The pilots slept comfortably in their berths, with their airplanes on board.

GERALD CHAPMAN, NOTORIOUS BANDIT, MUST HANG, U. S. COURT DECIDES

Ruling Upholds Right of Connecticut Tribunal to Deal With Convicted
Slayer of New Britain
Patrolman.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—Gerald Chapman, notorious bandit, must hang in Weathersfield, Conn., prison on March 3, the United States circuit court of appeals decided today.

Chapman, condemned for the murder of James Skelley, a New Britain
policeman, in a burglary on October 12, 1924, had appealed from a decision of Federal Judge Edwin S. Thomas.
That jurist, in refusing a writ of habeas corpus to the notorious mail robber, upheld the right of Connecticut to deal with Chapman. The convict, through his attorney, Frederick

J. Groehl, had argued his right to refuse President Coolidge's commutation of his 25-year sentence for the mail robbery.

Escaped from Atlanta.
Chapman escaped from the Atlanta penitentiary in March, 1923. He wished to go back there and complete his term in order to avoid the gallows in Connecticut.

The appellate court's decision, rewritten by Judge Martin T. Manton, declined to consider the validity of the commutation granted by the president. The court held that the prisoner had no right to plead the existence of a previous crime to save himself from the consequence of a later
one.

The prisoner, it continued, had no right to determine for himself which of the two sentences should be imposed.
At the outset of the fight to save his life, Chapman said he would carry the case to the supreme court if necessary.

Approximately 300 telephones were put out of commission over the week-

a Washington street manhole and flooding two cables of the Ohio Bell Telephone company.

Business lines along sections of Fourth and Fifth streets as well as cross streets and residence telephones in the Thompson hill district were affected. Telegraph wires over which The Review-Tribune receives state, national and world news also were disabled.

Through the efforts of Plant Superintendent H. W. Carper, and his co-workers, who labored Saturday night
Sunday and Sunday night, the news wires and most of the business telephones were restored last night. Com-

PERRY DANIELS, MILL MAN, WOUNDED BELOW HEART AT FARM HOUSE

Marvin L. English, 34, is Arrested on Charge of Shooting With Intent to Kill as Result of Gun Play on Campground Road, West of City, on Sunday Night.

POLICE SAY SHOOTING FOLLOWED WELLSVILLE MAN'S TRIPS TO HOME

Chief John H. Fultz Declares Prisoner, When Questioned, Said: "I Will Not Lie; I Did Shooting"— Wife, According to Police, Claims Jealousy, Was Motive.

Perry Daniels, 35, Wellsville millworker, is in a critical condition in the City hospital with a wound below his heart from a .32 calibre revolver, and Marvin L. English, 34, alleged self-confessed gun wielder, is held in the Wellsville jail on a charge of shooting with intent to kill as a result of a quarrel last night at 8 o'clock at the English home in the Campground road.

According to the story reported to have been told by the prisoner's wife to Chief of Police John Fultz, of Wellsville, English had accused the gun victim of bestowing too much attention upon her.

Police say English, observing Daniels approaching his house in the gathering darkness, slipped out of a rear door, darted around the side of the house and fired point blank at the visitor as he stood on the porch of the dwelling.

According to Mrs. English, police claim, the shooting occurred on Daniels' second trip during the evening to the home.
He had been up once before, it is claimed, and on that occasion had quarreled with English.

Gunwielder Calls Ambulance.

Daniels staggered into the roadway,
slumped to his knees and then fell over into the snow. English, it is claimed, dragged him into his house and called the D. N. MacLean ambulance, and a neighbor, according to police, advised members of the fire department of the shooting.

Chief of Police Fultz and several officers rode the patrol to within a short distance of the English home, arriving after Daniels had been taken to the hospital.

Police, reconnoitering before they advanced to the home in the darkness, saw a man come out of his house.

"America's Best Dressed Man" Goes To Ohio Conclave

COLUMBUS, Feb. 15.—A milling, noisy lobby crowd suddenly was silent. Only the rustlings of women's dresses as they eased into positions near the elevator were heard. All eyes were turned on one figure.

George H. Wright, of Huntington,
W. Va., "best dressed man in America," trotted majestically through the lobby. Sighs came from the women, but the men remained silent as the elevator hoisted him to a convention room on the third floor of the Neil house where the annual convention of the Ohio Association of Retail Cloth-

100 Young Men Hear Address
At Sunday Afternoon Club Meet

Dr. E. H. Richards, Oberlin, Chautauqua Lecturer, Discusses "Animals of Africa and Law of Survival of Fittest."

More than 100 young men between the ages of 16 and 26 years, attended yesterday's meeting of the Sunday Afternoon Club, which was held in the banquet hall of the Y. M. C. A.

Dr. E. H. Richards, Oberlin, Chautauqua lecturer and public speaker, discussed "Animals of Africa and the Law of Survival of the Fittest." He referred to a visit he made to Portuguese East Africa, where he spent 32 years. Twice the boat on which Dr. Richards was a passenger was upset by a rhinoceros and at another time his dog which was sleeping at the foot of his blanket was killed by a leopard.

"African life is a case of the survival of the fittest and is a real fight," he said.

Following an address of an hour, Dr. Richards conducted a round table discussion among a group of the young men. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting.

Dr. Richards plans to make another visit to the club within the near future at which time he will deliver an illustrated address on "African Animal Life." This is said to be the only ex-

Robert M. Koenig Found
Remedy For Pimply Skin

For years my skin would break out every once in a while—and ointments did very little to help me.

I read a doctor's article stating that pimply skin usually comes from the stomach—and bowels not getting rid of the poisons.

I tried Carter's Little Liver Pills for a few days—and since that time my skin is smooth and clear. Now I tell my friends the right way of getting rid of a broken out skin—and also of steering clear of upset stomach and sick headache. Carter's are all you claim for them.

$100,000 School Fire Is Probed

RECORD MADE
BY OLDSMOBILE

Coach in Non-stop Race Thru 12-Hour Blizzard.

Plowing through a 12-hour blizzard and racing over a route largely of ice covered, rutted gravel, a stock Oldsmobile coach raced for seven days and nights without a stop last week, rolling up a total mileage for the 168 hours of 5,950. This distance is believed to be a non-stop record for an automobile, particularly at the rate of speed, which averaged better than 35 miles an hour for the entire week.

This is the second annual Battle Creek endurance run by an Oldsmobile. Last year a professional driver broke both car and driver endurance records by driving an Oldsmobile 3,558 miles in 121 hours and 59 minutes. This year Lee Barnhart, of the Barnhart Motor Sales company, Oldsmobile dealer in Battle Creek, determined to further test the Oldsmobile, running it continuously at high speed for a week.

Barnhart and six other amateur drivers took turns in sending the Oldsmobile coach over a 78.3 mile course, of which 55 miles is poor gravel. The route consisted of a maze of sharp curves and was through three cities and two towns, at each of which stops were made each lap for registrations. Each time the endurance racer passed through the cities a legal speed rate was maintained, thus necessitating road speeds of 55 and more miles an hour to maintain its high average.

Saturday night, the fifth day of the run, a blizzard raged for 12 hours. During this time the Oldsmobile plunged its way through snow drifts and over roads other drivers considered blocked to traffic. The only mishap occurred during the storm when large snowbanks ahead of the car filled the radiator honeycomb openings, necessitating stops to chop the ice from the core. In the 24 hours including the storm period a total mileage of 873 miles was made. The best day's mileage was 977.7 miles.

From one to four passengers beside the driver were carried at all times so that the test was under constant observation. Careful check of gasoline and oil was kept, which showed an average mileage of 16.8 miles per gallon.

Setting on four eggs in a nest in the ironworks of a freight car, a thrush was disturbed by a freight examiner at Reading, England, but as soon as the train started she returned to her traveling home.

METHUSELAH'S WIFE

THE STORY OF A GIRL WHO MARRIED FOR MONEY

SEVENTY-FIVE.

In jumping up and starting off when faced so unexpectedly by Wyman Holt, Laurel unwittingly took the path away from instead of toward the house, so that he was able to bar her way when she realized her mistake.

"Please don't run away," he repeated earnestly. "I must talk to you."

"I do not wish to see ANY ONE, Wyman. Please allow me to pass." She shivered, but possibly not because of the cold.

"I just wanted to say that for old times' sake you will call on me if I can be of any possible assistance to you. Please consider me as a friend." He was speaking hurriedly as if each word must be his last.

"That is nice of you, Wyman." She moved past him, but with a step he caught up with her.

"If there is anything in the way of business you may wish to have done, please—"

"More than anything else I want to get away from here."

Wyman's eyes lighted. "Oh—"

"So that people will leave me alone," she finished.

His glance fell.

A small brown object scampered over the flagstones in a funny little trot caught the attention of both of them simultaneously, and both were impelled to smile. For between his tiny jaws the pekinese carried the attendant strings were dragging along at his side, dwarfing him and suggesting fantastically a carnival dragon.

"What barbarous habit! I exclaimed von approaching knight!"

Wyman suddenly brightening.

Laurel's inner nature, waiting for days to be prodded into laughter, suddenly released itself with a gush. The peke, suddenly halted looked inquiringly up at her from a distance. Wyman reached down to get him, but the animal deftly side-stepped him, and abandoned the corset to resist further attempts to make him a prisoner.

"Truly a relic of the dark age," laughed Laurel, picking it up. "The little scamp is always pulling out things—hosiery, shoes, stockings, anything. But it's something I've lost, or a button that has rolled under something, he can't be driven to bring it out."

"Berenice's corset?" Wyman asked with a straight face, breaking into a laugh as he did so.

"Berenice would kill you for that. It's at least size 44 to 46."

Laurel would have laughed at the most trivial remark then; her soul had been crying for this release.

It was at this moment that Mrs. Brent Daly and Mother Todd hove in view. Laurel saw them first.

"Good Lord, where can I hide this corset?"

"Why hide it?"

"Oh—"

It was too late now. She waited another moment, then held up the offending piece of apparel.

"Look what this damned peke dragged out here."

Wyman, hat in hand, was ready to go. The arrivals regarded his darkly, both individually and collectively. He bowed to them and turned to Laurel to say, "Good afternoon, Mrs. Harwood. I shall endeavor to attend to the matter."

Laurel frowned at the words. Obviously he was endeavoring to explain his presence, but she resented the impression that she had called on him for assistance.

Noble Harwood's absent wife turned a bright countenance to his sister as she picked up the dog. "Good afternoon, Mrs. Daly. So nice of you to drop in."

"Let's go up to the house. It's too chilly here," Mother Todd interjected, directing the two in front of her.

Silence fell over the group as they made their way to Mother Todd's fireplace in her living-room. Laurel, having shaken off her mood of despair, was not brought back to it by the unexpected appearance of Noble's sister. She fondled the dog, fed him chocolates from Mother Todd's box, and laughed at the task he had in getting down a carmel that tangled his teeth. All the while she knew why Neil Daly was making this visit, and what she had to say.

"How is Marion?" she asked, putting down the peke.

"Very well. She hasn't been going out too much lately and dancing herself to death. . . . I believe she is going to visit some school friends of hers in New York for a while."

Laurel could understand why. Marion couldn't bear to face the staring, questioning eyes of Central City.

"The truth of the matter, Laurel," Mrs. Daly spoke up with sudden intensity, "is that she is almost worried sick over yours and her father's differences. You know she didn't used to like you very well, Laurel, but now she cares a great deal for you, just as she does for her father."

Laurel regarded her doubtfully.

"Why can't you and Noble patch up your differences and end all of this silly talk that is going around the town. Surely—"

"I appreciate your interest in the matter, Mrs. Daly," Laurel interrupted.

The visitor hesitated a moment, then proceeded, her tone less subdued. "All this is getting you two nowhere. . . . I must say frankly, Laurel, that I'm afraid you are making a mountain out of a molehill. Noble is no better or no worse now than he ever has been. Surely you know his reputation when you married him. Surely you didn't expect your marriage to be as idyllic as if you had married—well, someone of your own age."

She might as well have injected "Wyman Holt" in the sentence, for the others read it in her eyes.

"Oh, if only you—all of you—would let me alone and let me think this out for myself!" Laurel had got up and was on the verge of leaving the room.

Mrs. Todd broke her silence. "Wait, Laurel! You've been thinking this out by yourself for nearly two weeks, now, and you haven't the slightest idea what you are going to do. Perhaps Mrs. Daly is right. I think it is time for you to decide either that you are going to live with Noble, your husband and the father of your unborn child, or leave him for good."

Laurel slowly sat down again, and stared at the floor. Yes, she must decide something. This couldn't go on. She must make up her mind. . . .

Red Knee Breeches Worn by Girls in Switzerland

Geneva.—The short skirt still holds away as the favored costume of American and English girls for skating at the Swiss mountain resorts. But knee breeches are clearly the thing for skating and bob sledding.

Observation at the more noted winter resorts in Switzerland shows indisputably that youthful America and youthful England are going in more and more for winter sports. The young people are letting their parents and their elder brothers and sisters find contentment in bridge, billiards and other indoor games, while they disport themselves on ice and snow.

One particularly striking costume seen recently on the skating rink at St. Moritz was a short-kilted skirt of violet-colored woolen material, with a knitted jumper of the same shade, and a woolen cap to match edged with sable.

For skiing the knee breeches are often of red material. They are worn with a white blouse and red woolen waistcoat and a white knitted cap.

The prevailing custom is that, after the morning sports, the young women take their lunch without waiting to change their clothes. After lunch and coffee comes a brief siesta, after which the young people get into their afternoon gowns for the inevitable tea, with occasional dancing. Then comes a smart walk in the hills and perhaps skiing. Evening gowns are worn for dinner, which is followed by dancing until the early hours of the morning.

Panegyric For Telephone Workers

Week-end rains, which converted East Liverpool's sidewalks and streets into ice skating rings and made walking perilous, proved costly to the Ohio Bell Telephone company in the district, for water seeped into a Washinton street manhole and flooded two cables.

As a result, approximately 200 telephone subscribers, including many business houses in Fifth and Fourth streets as well as cross thoroughfares and most of the Thompson hill residential district, were deprived of telephone service.

Among the wires put out of commission were those over which The Review-Tribune receives its state, national and world news, thus meaning the paralysis of all telegraph reports.

Notwithstanding the seriousness of the situation, the news wires operated early Monday morning, while most of the business telephones were used today, while the remainder of the district will be restored to normalcy before night, thanks to the efforts of the telephone company employees who willingly worked until midnight Saturday night and all day Sunday. And they labored under conditions that were far from a picnic.

This is only one of the many sacrifices made under trying conditions by employees of a great public utility which is more often condemned than praised. And because of the importance of their work to the patrons of their employers they deserve this encomium.

The public should remember the telephone man when something goes wrong with the service. Instead of complaining, pat him on the back. He merits it many times during the year.

Land Booms

The widespread land speculation of the last couple of years may not be altogether so bad as many people think. Theodore Price, financial authority, believes its importance has been exaggerated, and it is just as well not to encourage rumors that the land boomers are "trying to get out from under."

"It is undoubtedly true," he says, "that much of the property that has recently changed hands was sold at prices that were unwarrantably high, but the money invested in these ventures has already been paid out and in so far as it may represent an ultimate loss it is already gone and cannot be lost a second time. As there has been no destruction of property, the community as a whole will be no poorer, although its land may be appraised at lower figures."

Land speculation, which admittedly has its evils and perils, for individuals and communities, has certain points of superiority over some rival forms of speculation, particularly speculation in dubious securities.

For one thing, as Mr. Price suggests, the land bought is something tangible and substantial, and is still there even if prices slump. For another thing, a land boom often sends through a whole community and section a healthful glow which stimulates hope, energy and business in general. Sometimes this makes an apparently forced boom realize its expectations, or at least leaves a balance of net benefits.

Working Girl Students

The director of educational work at a large Y. W. C. A. has noted a marked change in the things the modern girl wants to study. There has been a 25 per cent increase in demand for cultural subjects. Instead of cooking, millinery and dressmaking courses, young women are asking for classes in music, correct English, French, grammar, arithmetic. Dozens of them want public speaking.

The director does not regard this as a bad sign at all. Inexpensive ready-made clothes and hats are available now, and it is really more sensible for a working girl to purchase them than to spend too much of her precious leisure sewing for herself. Cooking can be learned from the excellent cook books that are published.

The cultural subjects may not have any apparent immediate effect on the ambitious student's income, but they certainly broaden her outlook, open doors to new interests and develop within her fresh resources of happiness and power.

Better Farming In Europe

A back-to-the-land movement is reported in many European countries. Italy is developing intensive farming. Roumania is limiting farm holdings to 1,225 acres. Switzerland is subsidizing cereals to encourage the use of home food products. England is breaking up large estates to supply food and provide employment.

There are easily frightened Americans who see in this preparation for that "next war." There are others who foresee a narrowing market for food products raised in the United States and Canada. There are still others who see in it progress and good sense.

This last group is pleased to see Europe making greater use of all possible resources, seeking rehabilitation by agricultural development as well as by other means. It may mean a better distribution of wealth abroad and an advancement in the general standard of living. These things have never yet proved harmful.

They do say that sometimes lazy people are most efficient and that people too stupid to see their own faults and failures achieve success. Maybe it pays to know how to use one's weaknesses as well as one's gifts.

HASKIN'S LETTER By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Sea Faring in Days of Old.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 15.—When prohibition first became effective in the United States—that is, when the law first went into effect—it will be remembered that many and various were the methods used to circumvent it. No doubt those who hid upon the idea of filtering such toilet preparations as Lilas Vegetal and bay rum thought this was decidedly modern and novel.

The journal of an old tar serving with the Pacific Fleet during its cruise of 1839-1841 indicates that when there was a shortage of whisky on board the sailors discovered that can de cologne when mixed with a little hot water and sugar "makes as delicious punch as ever gave a fellow a sore head in the morning."

Rear Admiral Elliot Snow (CC), U. S. N., who has made a deep study of all the facts concerning the U. S. Constitution, has in his possession a copy of this story as told by "a fore-top man" serving on that ship during her cruise to the West Coast. He also has copies of official correspondence indicating that it was a fact that there was a shortage of grog on board during this voyage.

On June 19, 1841, the officer commanding the U. S. Storeship Relief requested that Captain Turner, commander of the U. S. Naval Forces in the Pacific, have a survey made of five barrels of rice and five barrels of whisky which were received in bad condition on board the ship. On the 21st Capt. Turner, on board the Constitution, issued the order. The survey showed that the rice had been badly damaged by weevils and that the whisky contained vinegar and salt water. Captain Turner therefore ordered that all be thrown overboard.

This official correspondence gives proof that there was an actual shortage of whisky during this voyage and therefore lends credence to the story of the seaman. He goes on to say that as they neared the Cape and began to feel the weather grow colder and colder many dolorous complaints might be heard throughout the ship. The men were all cursing bitterly the hard fortune that deprived them of their beloved, stimulating liquid in such uncomfortable weather. Many were the wishes expressed that they might soon round the Cape, or that they might fall in with some generous craft which would be willing to replenish somewhat their whisky casks.

The Cup That Cheered

It was a well known fact that there was no liquor aboard except that possessed by the occupants of the cabin or wardroom and that was of course taboo to the crew. Consequently there was much wondering and not a little envy on the part of those not in the "know." Finally one Garnet, of whom it had been said, "for what transaction going forward that he didn't know something concerning," discovered the source of the fortunate ones' hilarity.

He hastened to spread the news among his companions, and mystified them by asking them, "What would you say now, if I were to put you in the way of a good pot of cologne-sling? That's the stuff to keep the cramp out of the stomach; damme,

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. MCINTYRE

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 15.—For the last two days I have been scouring this section of Florida for a thermometer. I have raked the byways, highways and causeways with the fertility of a butter and egg man seeking constancy among Broadway moths.

In stores where thermometers should be kept I inquire and the clerks gaze at me with the vacuity of a flea-scratching dog. It is like asking for ice water in London. Not a home I have visited has a thermometer. I doubt if they have them at hospitals.

I offer no explanation. Nor do I particularly want a thermometer. In fact I have been known to go as long as two weeks without giving a thermometer a single thought. I can't read a thermometer and I don't know if Fahrenheit is a man or zebu, but I'm going to find a thermometer if it takes all winter.

You see the smooth white sand—it is a press agent speaking—dotted with yuccas and mangroves and palms which wave over the ocean. Fresh salty fumes of the sparkling breakers—the press agent's in again—mingle with scents of sea plum and rose apple. True stuff and fine reading but still I'd like a thermometer.

Rosie, the elephant, is a familiar rye whisky or Holland gin ain't a circumstance to it. There were immediate questions as to just what this strange liquid might be.

Garnet went on to explain that he "twigged them finish one potfull and then start for the berth deck; I dogged their steps, for I was determined to find out their secret, and I saw them drive down in the cock pit, and in a moment they returned with a pint bottle each of eau de cologne. . . . so if you can raise a purchase let's have the chink, and I'll do your business for you in a moment."

There was an immediate clamor to know the price. Many a dollar which had been saved for the purpose of purchasing bum-boat delicacies when the fleet should have arrived in port was now brought forth and with no hesitation used to purchase this expensive but delightful substitute for grog.

At first it was sold only to certain individuals "under the rose," but soon the entire ship's company having become aware of this fascinating beverage became insistent in their demand. The store room of the purser's steward was crowded and soon "cologne" was the rage from the fore-top to the main-hold."

Of course this good fortune of the crew could not continue indefinitely. The fact that they had partaken of something which put a sparkle in the eye and a flush to the cheek could not for very long escape the notice of the officers and many cases of intoxication were reported. Then arose the question as to where the men had obtained the liquor. The traffic in this eau de cologne was carried on with such discretion and circumspection, however, that it was several days before this information was available.

The fore-top man ends his tale with the sad philosophy that "man was born to disappointment and perplexity, and he scarcely becomes possessed of a desideratum ere cruel Fate steps in, mars his pleasures, and dashes the cup of gratification and enjoyment from his eager lips; so with the cologne; as one of our wages expressed it, 'twas too good to last long; by some means or other, the 'fountain-head' became acquainted with the source from whence this exhilarating beverage sprang, and forthwith clapped a stopper thereon, and many were the countenances that changed from joy and gladness to sorrow and disappointment when this distressing intelligence reached them."

sight on the roads near our bungalow. She belongs to Carl Fisher, a pioneer developer. They imported a Senegalese to handle her, but Rosie had become attached to a native darkey and she gave the Senegalese heels and sent him to a hospital with three broken ribs.

At dusk last night the darkey was riding Rosie home bare-back. "Easy riding?" I called out. "Yes, sah, fine as a fiddle," he replied. Then he stopped and told me about the fun of handling an elephant. I must ask Carl Fisher about a thermometer. Any many who can dig up an elephant ought to produce a thermometer.

There are perhaps as many jazz bands in Florida as in Greater New York—with Paul Whiteman and Roger Wolf Kahn scheduled for appearance. I saw an ad today for 23 saxophonists, but they will have to leave their raccoon coats up north.

I have often been puzzled about folks you see attending matinees in New York. They are distinct types. And you see them only at matinees—and winter resorts.

Irvin Cobb and Meredith Nicholson are expected shortly to join our menage. Nicholson is novelizing the life of Andrew Jackson and Cobb is busy with "I'll enjoy watching the authors' auth."

Which reminds me I have been perusing the library of a strange house. Last night I skimmed through "Jo's Boys" and was transported back to those happy hours when our hired girl read me to sleep with the words of Louisa M. Alcott. Books have souls. They are souls. Even girl books.

At Aladdin City, a town nearby in the making, they put on a quick development sketch today. In the morning the sun rose on a vacant lot and by nightfall a house had been carried in sections by airplane, fitted up and completely furnished so a family was able to move in.

It will soon be that a man may telephone around lunch time and order a new house for his mother-in-law, who is arriving on the evening 6:15. That's service.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchitis, asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga. (adv.)

And when they came within reach of the poor Riffians they took to the air, and the rest was easy.

Americans, who are undefeated by any adequate airplane fleet, ought to think what would happen to New York, Boston, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle or the capital of the nation itself, Washington, if a few hostile ships from Africa, Asia or Europe should visit our shores and release flocks of destructive airplanes.

Our poor, simpleton "army and navy authorities" talk about coast defense guns and anti-aircraft guns. They would be as useless against aircraft as the bows and arrows of the Indians were useless against the muskets of our ancestors.

The United States needs flying machinery.

All the world's "great men" are praised too much, and denounced too much.

One historian, like Freude, sees in Caesar a giant of intellect, a patriot, everything that is noble.

Another, infinitely more careful and more accurate as a historian, Ferrero, sees in that same Caesar a clever politician, forcing his way to the top by cunning, intrigue, a demagogic deserting to his own class, to use the dress of the population against that class, etc.

Schiller writes most beautifully about William Tell, then along comes another more accurate narrator to tell you that no such person as William Tell ever existed.

A picture, illustrating a book by the French writer, Anatole France, recently dead, shows one conception of Napoleon Bonaparte.

The world beneath his knee is covered with blood. The people upon whom he tramples are in chains and in agony. Below the pedestal you see the soldiers of "glorious France" walking with one leg, crippled, with out any legs, one pushing himself along in a carriage.

The story is supposed to be told in the world of his letters: "BUT HE GAVE US GLORY."

Beware of too much praise and too much attack.

Napoleon was cruel directly and indirectly. He was as remorseless as a shark, when his ambition was at stake. He was brutal with women, and there were other unpleasant things you could say about him. But he was a great servant of the human race.

He made kings ridiculous for all time, keeping them waiting, a half dozen at a time, in his ante-room.

He created puppet kings and put them on the throne. A descendant of one of them still reigns in Sweden, descended from a little French lawyer whose son Napoleon made a marshal.

Final Rehearsals Today and Tomorrow For "Fairy Woods"

Final rehearsals for the play, "The Fairy Woods," to be presented by the pupils of the McKinley school in the high school auditorium Wednesday and Thursday afternoon and evening, will be held today and tomorrow. There will be special minuses for the school children on both days.

Mary Alex and Jack Patterson have the roles of Edith and Tom, leading characters in the play. Sara Bourne, as Queen Rose and Robert Pennebaker, as King Peony, have a difficult task of trying to find a governess for their daughter, Violet, who is Phyllis Miller. They are anxious for her to become a fairy like her sister Lily.

Helen Evans, Madame Tulip, who is Jane Crable, is finally selected for the post of governess.

The king and queen are much disturbed over their country cousin, Clover, Ruth Moninger, coming to court just at the time they are giving a ball for Prince Butterfly and Sir Firefly.

Carl Stockdale and Everett Lunsford, Sara Stewart, as Buttercup, lends comedy to the play. Julius Resnick appears in the role of Jemmy and Alice Stewart as Le Crier. Sir Bumble Bee is played by Robert Hall.

Costumes and scenery are furnished by the Earl C. Darfler Producing company of Chicago, under whose direction the play is being directed.

HOUGHTON, Mich., Feb. 15.—Six children are dead and their mother and 4-month-old sister are in critical condition today after an early morning fire which destroyed the log farm house of Gottfried Rothenborger, at Portage Entry, 16 miles west of here.

The dead: Freda, 10; Elsie, 9; Marjorie, 8; William, 6; Ruth, 4, and Paul, 3.

Two other children, Alfred, 12, and Irving, 11, escaped without injury by jumping through a window to the roof of a shed at the rear of the house.

YOUR HEALTH

Why a Baby May Suffer With Secondary Anemia

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D., United States Senator from New York, Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

TO my mind the most important member of the household is the baby. Babies and little children need lots of mothering and, unfortunately, some of them need a lot of doctoring.

There are many ailments these poor innocents may have. To-day I want to tell you about a condition doctors call "secondary anemia."

There is a condition called anemia which is due to disease in the blood-making organ. I am not speaking about that to-day. On the contrary, I desire to describe to you a state of lowered vitality, impoverishment of the blood, flabbiness of the muscles, poor circulation and pronounced paleness of the skin, due to other causes than actual disease of the blood-making structures of the body.

What are these other causes? Many a baby is born with impoverished blood and marked anemia, because its mother, poor thing, was not physically fit for motherhood. She was tubercular, perhaps, or had some other constitutional or blood disease which made it impossible to give her baby the right start.

Recently I saw a lot of young women with the hookworm disease. They were skinny, pale and terribly feeble. Nobody would expect an infant born of such a mother to come into the world a husky, sturdy, bouncing baby.

If it is not hookworm it might be tapeworm—anything which deprives the mother of rich blood and abundant health will leave her progeny weak and anemic.

Sometimes the mother may be a victim of chronic poisoning from potash, lead or mercury. Scurvy, malignant disease, or chronic dyspepsia are other conditions which give the baby a bad start.

A few months before the baby's birth the mother may be unfortunate enough to contract diphtheria, measles, typhoid or other infectious disease. This is likely to damage the baby's prospects.

After birth secondary anemia may follow improper feeding. Sometimes a baby is kept at the breast too long. This is a too common cause of anemia.

In a survey I had made in New York City, it was surprising how many young children were found to be drinking tea, coffee and cambric tea instead of milk. They were emaciated and undernourished for the want of real food. Don't imagine either that such mistaken practices are confined to the homes of the poor. They are quite as frequent in the palaces of the rich.

In every case of secondary anemia the exciting cause must be determined. Then you will know what is best to do. In most instances it means that proper feeding must be started at once.

In addition to the usual methods of treatment, cod liver oil and sunlight are tremendous curative factors.

walk down the road a short distance and then cross over into a field and stand behind a tree.

Chief Fultz started across the field and observed English emerge from behind the tree and advance to meet him.

Find Revolver on Prisoner. As the two came together, English, according to the chief, fingered his pocket suggestively. Fultz lunged at the man and grabbed his arm, fearing gun play. He searched English and found a revolver.

English was placed in the patrol and taken to the hospital. Daniels, according to Fultz, identified English as the man who had shot him. The police chief then asked English if he had shot Daniels.

The accused man is alleged to have replied: "Yes, I'm not going to lie anything about it."

He was taken back to Wellsville and locked up, pending a hearing before Mayor W. L. Fogo.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—An accumulation of week-end selling orders was in readiness for the market in the first period today, and buying demand showed a sharp contraction from that of the final sessions of last week. The high priced industrial stocks and speculative leaders started the new week with losses of from 3 to 6 points and the reactionary tone spread to every section of the market.

Professionals in the stock market took the bearish position when the market as a whole failed to respond to the good news of the sudden ending of the coal strike and the evident easing of the money market. By concentrating selling pressure on the fast-moving industrial speculative leaders they had little difficulty in forcing down prices in this period, though it is problematical how much real liquidation they were able to bring about.

Despite the reassuring statement issued by the officers of Devoe and Reynolds, the stock continued its sensational downward plunge, dropping 15 points in the first hour, completing a loss of 54 points since Thursday.

THE CHIROPRACTIC IDEA

The Drugless Health Science for Ascertaining the Symptoms and Adjusting the Cause of Disease.

"Results produced are what count," says graduate of The Palmer School of Chiropractic, who has located here.

Chiropractic, the drugless health science, was discovered in 1895 by Dr. D. D. Palmer and has been developed almost exclusively by his son, B. J. Palmer, D.C., Ph.C., who is now the leader of the chiropractic profession and head of the Palmer School of Chiropractic, located at Davenport, Iowa. This school is the "fountain head of chiropractic," it being the original and largest school of this science in the world.

This drugless health science has made wonderful advancement in the past 30 years, until today there are over twenty thousand graduate chiropractors and hundreds of thousands of satisfied patients.

Chiropractic has progressed because of the results produced, often in cases said to be hopeless and beyond humane aid.

All parts of the body are controlled by nerves and fed by a nerve force from the brain. The work of a chiropractor is based entirely upon this nerve circulation. Any nerve under pressure, caused by a subluxated (slightly dislocated) vertebra (a small bone of the spine), cannot carry its full share of nerve force; therefore sickness and disease to that organ or part of the body supplied by this nerve. Locating and correcting the subluxated vertebrae is the work of a chiropractor. Once the pressure is released from a nerve and the normal flow of nerve force re-established, the disease, whatever be its nature, name, or location, disappears.

Walter W. Schroeder, D.C., who has located a suite of offices at 108 East Sixth street, is a graduate of The Palmer School of Chiropractic of Davenport, Iowa. He completed the three-year residence course late in 1923, then spent almost a year in the office with a leading chiropractor at Willard, Ohio, to secure practical experience. He then was in partnership with a chiropractor in Cincinnati, Ohio, for one year and located here last November.

Walter W. Schroeder is well known in our city, for he lived here several years before he took up the study of chiropractic. Here he got considerable of his business experience and built a large circle of friends who welcome his return.

The only tools of a chiropractor are his well-trained hands. The use of anything other than the hands is not chiropractic, and therefore not taught at the Palmer school. The name of this health science, spelled chiropractic and pronounced ki-ro-prak-tik, is coined from two Greek words and means the doing of something by hand. Therefore, a chiropractor is a hand doctor, or hand practitioner. "The practice of chiropractic consists of the palpation and adjustment, with the hands, of the movable segments of the spinal column to normal position for the purpose of releasing the poisoned impulse (nerve force)." B. J. Palmer.

From the name and definition, it is easy to realize that, while each have their place, yet, chiropractic is not medicine, not surgery, not osteopathy and not mechanotherapy. It is a unique, scientific and effective system of correcting the cause of both acute and chronic conditions. It is a natural method for natural people.

An invitation is extended to you to call at this office, room 4, 108 East Sixth street, and have chiropractic, as it applies to your condition, explained to you. There is absolutely no charge for consultation.

VACCINATION IS STRONGLY URGED

Many calls are being received by the state department of health in regard to smallpox which is again prevalent throughout the state. Dr. W. T. Henshaw, state health commissioner, warned people as to the importance of immediate vaccination. Further proof of the increasing prevalence of the disease is indicated by recently tabulated figures which revealed that 821 cases were reported to the department during 1925, or nearly twice as many as in 1924, there being 438 cases recorded for that year with two deaths.

"This alarming increase in the past two years of an absolutely preventable disease, is due entirely to failure to be vaccinated," Dr. Henshaw declared.

A large percentage of people are not vaccinated, either because they have the erroneous idea that vaccination is dangerous, or because they are not informed or are too careless to realize the importance of it.

She Was Skinny, Weak and Nervous

The greatest strength-giver and producer of good healthy flesh in the world is Cod Liver Oil—it's full of vitamins.

But it's nasty stuff—ill-smelling and hard to take, and usually upsets the stomach.

Thank goodness! We don't have to even smell vile nasty Cod Liver Oil any more, for now all druggists are selling McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, sugar-coated, and as easy to take as candy, so that you can get the real Cod Liver Oil in condensed form.

Men and women, weak, thin and nervous, are urged to put on weight and get back their health and strength with these wonderful tablets.

One woman gained 15 pounds in five weeks and that's going fast enough.

Only 60 cents for 60 tablets, and if they don't put five pounds of flesh on any thin person in 30 days your druggist is authorized to hand you back the money you paid for it.

"But be sure and get McCoy's, the original and genuine."

If It's Chronic Constipation? McCoy's Rinolin

Will Give You Regular and Natural Bowel Movements in 10 Days or Your Money Back

Why don't you get rid of chronic constipation altogether and stop the use of harmful purgatives, salts or calomel?

As long as you have constipation toxins will accumulate in the intestines and eventually get into the entire system and cause self-poisoning.

When you have taken McCoy's Rinolin for 10 days as directed, it will have put the bowels in such a clean, healthy condition that for a long time thereafter, you will have natural and regular bowel movements.

Then you'll feel so much better and look so much better that life will be well worth living.

McCoy's Rinolin is a scientific emulsion that has already helped a host of chronic sufferers put an end to stubborn constipation.

Like McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, it is the one grand tested remedy, so if your bowels do not function properly, get a bottle today from any druggist with the distinct understanding that if it doesn't do as this notice reads, your money will be returned.

Rinolin tonight—Pep tomorrow.

Approximately $2,000 Expended to Keep Roads Free of Snow

It has cost the state highway department between $1,900 and $2,000 to keep the highways clear of snow so far this season, according to a report just completed by district highway Supt. Keltner of this county.

This money was spent for wages, gasoline and oil, but in addition the vibration of the snow plows attached to the front of the big county trucks caused two axles to break.

All county trucks were "laid up" Saturday, and two trucks will not be able to go into service again until new axles are received.

A truck load of overweight signs was due to arrive in Lisbon Monday from the district highway warehouse at Ravenna for distribution along the roads of this county. The load of trucks, including the vehicle was reduced 25 percent, effective today, and the signs are to be placed at convenient intervals on all the main market and all state highways.

The signs will also be placed on the improved highway which are under county jurisdiction.

Unless there is another heavy fall of snow, it is not likely the state snow plows will again be attached to the county and state trucks, as the warm weather Saturday reduced the last fall of snow to the ice surface.

SCHOOL RECORDS HIT LOW MARK

Snow drifts, measles and scarlet fever were the contributing major factors in keeping rural school attendance records low during the last two weeks, according to reports just filed with County Superintendent of Schools H. Leonard at Lisbon.

An improvement in the health of the rural school children was reported at the county school headquarters Monday. While a few new cases of measles have been reported, there is a marked decline in the record of a fortnight ago.

Finest cough medicine you ever used. Family supply easily made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good. Four 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Mother! It's Cruel to "Physic" Your Child

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated infants and children had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils. While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all children's little ills, he did not believe that a sickening "purge" or "physic" was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to establish natural bowel "regularity" even if the child is chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it never gripes, sickens or upsets the most delicate system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless, and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it.

Ex-Collegians Bow to Jack Art Jewelers In Speedy Clash

Passwork of Canton Quint Beats Locals

After Trailing in Opening Period, Stark County Combine Overhauls Locals in Second Quarter and Leads Remainder of Game; Anderson Plays Great Game at Guard for Potters.

JACK ART JEWELERS basketballers triumphed over the Helmie Ex-Collegians on the high school floor Saturday night, the Canton passers taking home a victory by the score of 34 to 27.

The Jewelers team showed the few hundred basketball fans that saw Saturday night's game some real basketball, having about the prettiest pass work seen on the high school floor for some time.

The Ex-Collegians played good basketball and they made the Jewelers know that they were in a battle, but they could not cope with the all around superior playing of the Canton lads.

The Jewelers took the lead at the start, scoring two baskets before Cannon shot in the first double-decker for the Helmie tribe.

The game in the first quarter was nip and tuck, the scoreboard showing the Ex-Collegians leading, 9 to 7, at the end of the period.

In the second period the Jewelers overhauled the Ex-Collegians, and they simply outclassed the local passers, running up their score to 23 points, while the best the locals could do was to make a point from the free-throw line.

The Canton passers were on the front end of a 23 to 10 count at the end of the half.

During the third quarter, the Ex-Collegians staged a comeback and the Canton lads did not score a point while the locals found the hoop for eight, the third quarter ending 23 to 18 in the Canton lads' favor.

The visitors put on a little more speed in the final quarter and they soon rolled up a score that was too big for the Ex-Collegians to overcome.

Everyone of the Canton passers played real basketball and they all figured in the scoring. Stahler, Van Nostran and Van Allen starring.

Anderson, Crawford and Wain were the best performers for the Helmie aggregation, Anderson's all around playing featuring the tie.

In the preliminary contest Laughlin No. 4 forced the Power five to accept a 23 to 27 defeat.

The Potters outclassed their opponents and were leading 17 to 10 when playing time was up for the first half. During the remaining periods the Laughlin boys maintained their lead.

Greenwalt, McConville and Kirkham were the sterling performers for the Laughlin five, while Jester, Dickey and Bucher played the best for the Power passers.

LORAH PASSERS LOSE AT DOVER

Home Five Clinches Game by First Half Lead.

Defeated by New Philadelphia and Dover in their first extended trip of the season, Coach Lorah's high school passers returned home yesterday to prepare for games this week with Steubenville and Chester, both of which will be staged on the local court.

After being nosed out by a 27 to 25 decision Friday at New Philly, the Blue and White was reversed again on Saturday night at Dover by a score of 27 to 16.

A big, fast team of rugged youths with a rough and ready style of playing was too much for the local combine, playing on a strange floor. The Dover lads put up a great game against the visitors, especially in the first half when they ran up 19 points to the local's seven. Lorah's outfit outscored Dover in the last half, 9 to 8.

Jimmy Hamilton, the big gun in the game Friday, again was the leading scorer on Saturday night, topping the list with seven points and holding his own with the Dover sharks. Jimmy collected a total of 15 points on the trip.

HELEN GOES INTO FINALS

"Little Poker Face" Meets Unbeaten Suzanne Tomorrow.

By Frederick K. Abbott.
CANNES, France, Feb. 15.—Helen Wills today became a finalist in the Carlton club singles, when she defeated Mlle. Didi Valsto, 6-1, 8-4, in the semi-finals.

The victory scored by Miss Wills today insures her meeting the undefeated Suzanne in the finals tomorrow.

The Californian is at top form. If there is any weakness in her game it is in the overhead game, but even in this department she has been displaying remarkable improvement during the past few days. Her sizzling drives are all well placed, and her volleying powers have strengthened. Moreover Miss Wills has developed fleetness that amazes those who have watched her career. During yesterday's match she covered a great deal of territory with a considerable amount of alacrity. The question is whether she will be able to move as fast as Suzanne and whether she can meet the French girl at the net on equal terms. If a smashing drive, and studied composure can defeat Suzanne, the American girl has victory in her pocket.

Suzanne has never been better. She realizes it. Her every move is a picture, something almost a posture. The courts are a stage to her. She has won a long string of love sets. She declares she hopes to go through this tournament in love sets. Always a player who never gives an inch to an opponent, Suzanne is determined to extend herself tomorrow to convince the world that her withdrawal from Wimbledon and the Olympic games in 1924 was not because she had anything to fear from Helen Wills.

The psychological element of the match remains a question. It can easily decide the victor. Miss Wills is undoubtedly the popular favorite with the fans. If the audience displays its partiality it may throw the temperamental Suzanne off her game. If Miss Wills can win the first two games, she will have a psychological advantage.

Anything may happen tomorrow. It will be a great match between a 27-year-old world champion, playing her own field, in the height of her career, and a 20-year-old girl, with dogged courage and an ability to drive.

Deplore Commercialism.

PARIS, Feb. 15.—With the Wills-Lenglen match only 24 hours distant, the French press has aroused itself to lamentations over the commercial atmosphere that surrounds the match.

L'Auto, the leading French sporting newspaper, today demands to know why the French Tennis federation has not stepped in to check the commercialization of the match. The newspaper suggests that the French Tennis

U.S.-French Tennis Stars Clash On Eve of Lenglen-Wills Meeting

Tilden, Richards and Cream of Foreign Talent Battle in National Indoor Championships.

By Davis J. Walsh.
NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—France and America declared more or less friendly war today on two fronts, the national indoor tennis championship, featuring Bill and Vinnie and Francis versus Rene, Jean and Jacques, beginning at the Seventh Regiment armory, New York, on the eve of the great meeting between Helen and Suzanne at the Carlton club, Cannes. If the latter, as advertised, will be the match of the ages, so the American indoor champions must be conceded the distinction of outclassing anything heretofore attempted on an indoor court, here or elsewhere.

Four of the best eight players in the world, William T. Tilden and Vincent Richards, America, and Rene Lacoste and Jean Borotra, France, were numbered among the entries, while two others, Francis T. Hunter, America, and Jacques Brugnon, France, are close to the top ten.

The outstanding male stars, only Bill Johnston, Dick Williams and Gerald Patterson and Jim Anderson, the Australians, will be missing. There were sixty-four entries, in all, but the other fifty-eight could have been thrown out the window without affecting the ultimate situation.

Two of the salient six, Tilden, Richards, Hunter, Lacoste, Borotra and Brugnon, were inevitable finalists, in spite of a trick draw that will insure the meeting of the big timers before the semi-final round. If all goes as it should, the fifth round on Thursday will find Richards playing Lacoste, Tilden meeting Borotra and Hunter facing Brugnon, simply because there is nobody of importance in the lower bracket of the top flight with the possible exception of Fred Anderson. If that young man plays his game, he is a certain semi-finalist, while the other must be either Richards or Lacoste, Tilden or Borotra and Hunter or Brugnon.

It should be a very snappy event, all in all, and some of the boys have even gone so far as to fear the worst of our Mr. Tilden. It seems that the drama has so claimed his attention as to cramp his style in other lines of endeavor, one of which calls for the playing of championship tennis. Our Mr. Tilden is not himself, they say.

If he doesn't go on the finals, then Borotra may be the abiding fact, as many are pleased to fear. It is said that indoor tennis is right down this young man's alley and, on this account, he is easily the most dangerous of the three invaders.

Be that as it might, the citadel of American tennis seems to be threatened for the first time since 1919 when Tilden and Johnston began their uninterrupted dictatorship over the Davis cup field. Even if neither Lacoste nor Borotra is able to get away with the title, they will have a second fling at American tennis the following week with the playing of the international team match, in which anything is possible.

If Tilden really is below his best stride, our young men might be in for a shellacking, at that.

Presented to King George if She Wins

CANNES, France, Feb. 15.—Not only her reputation and her title will be at stake when Mlle. Lenglen plays Helen Wills tomorrow. M. Fleureau, French ambassador at London, has promised Suzanne that if she wins against Miss Wills he will present her to King George after the Wimbledon tournament.

Doris Kenyon Stars In "I Want My Man," At The American

A gust of girlish soprano, floating out through the window of a Brooklyn drawing room to smite the ears of a famous music composer, was the luckiest thing in the life of Doris Kenyon, film and stage star, who is co-starring with First National with Milton Sills in "I Want My Man," the current attraction at the American theatre.

"I was singing in the choir of a Bushwick Methodist church while studying for a career as a pianist," said Miss Kenyon. "I was doing a finger exercise on the keyboard when some urge led me to air my lungs. I sent my voice as high as I could. 'Victor Herbert happened to be coming to visit my father. He heard me sing for the first time. As he was a warm friend of my family, he knew I was studying piano. But he didn't know I had any ability in voice—and no more did I."

"As soon as he came in he turned to me and asked if I should like to go on the stage. I had never dreamed of it, but before my first surprise was ended he had offered me a role in his operetta, 'Princess Pat,' which he was just starting in New York. It was my high note that attracted his attention, and it is responsible for my turning from music to drama."

MARION MAN WINS

East Liverpool Man Has Played Violin Since Boyhood.

Richard Buxton, 77, East Liverpool's representative in the Ohio championship fiddlers' contest, conducted in Cleveland last week, will not play in the nation-wide competition which will be held in Detroit by Henry Ford, millionaire automobile manufacturer. Buxton was eliminated in the early rounds of the state contest. He is now spending a few days with his son, David Buxton, in the Forest City. Buxton is a native of Missouri, but has resided in East Liverpool for 20 years. According to his daughter, Mrs. Luther Villie, of St. George street, he has played the violin since a boy. During his younger days he played for barn dances. Of recent years he has played only for his own amusement. He worked at the East End plant of the American Vitrified Products company for many years, but recently retired. He has been making his home with his stepson, Dwight McBride, of Anderson boulevard. A. H. Harper, 65, of Marion, won the Ohio contest when he defeated Jonas Helmling, 85-year-old contestant, in the final round. Harper, who will enter the Detroit contest, filled a two-day engagement at the theatre under whose auspices the state contest was conducted.

Arctic Not So Cold as Painted, Says Stefansson

Omaha, Neb.—The generally accepted theory that frigid weather is prevalent the year round in the Arctic regions was discounted by Vilhjalmur Stefansson, noted polar explorer and scientist, in an address here. Stefansson declared he had discovered by experience that the average temperature of Iceland in January is 30 degrees above zero and that on the northern coast of North America during July and August the thermometer very often goes to 80 degrees in the shade and has been known to go to 100 degrees.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, at bed time.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them, 15c and 30c.

That Same Old Stomach Distress!

Curtise, Ohio — "I had stomach trouble all my life until a little over a year ago. I tried everything. At last I took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and the 'Pleasant Pellets' and am glad to say I am not bothered any more—I feel good. I thought there was no cure for it, several doctors told me it couldn't be cured, but I found out it could. I doctored about eighteen years without results and am glad to say that Dr. Pierce can cure what others cannot. I wish to have this printed so it will help other sufferers. There are several people around here taking the 'Discovery' since they saw what it did for me."—Otto F. Shaneck, Route 1.
